Art Unit: 1762

DETAILED ACTION

Claims 24-30, 32-37, and 44-62 are pending in this application. Amended claims Claims 24-30, 34-37, 44-57 and newly added claims 58-62 are noted.

The amendment dated 1/12/07 and 3/26/07 has been entered and carefully considered. The examiner appreciates the amendments to the claims. In view of said amendment, the previous art rejection has been withdrawn.

Claims 32-33 are withdrawn from consideration as being directed to a nonelected invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 24-30, 34-37, and 44-62 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 24, the term "simple chemical vapor deposition" is a relative term which renders the claim indefinite. The term "simple" is not defined by the claim, the specification does not provide a standard for ascertaining the requisite degree, and one of ordinary skill in the art would not be reasonably apprised of the scope of the invention. The same issue applies to claims 25-30, 34-37, and 44-62.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 24-30, 34-37, and 44-62 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vakil (5,902,638). Vakil discloses a method for producing on the surface of a nickel- or cobalt-based superalloy article a spallation-resistant aluminum oxide layer by chemical vapor deposition at low temperatures on a metal aluminide layer that has been deposited on the surface of a nickel- or cobalt-based superalloy substrate (col.1 line 58 – col.2 line 1). Specifically, the metal aluminide layer, also known as a diffusion coating, is produced on the superalloy surface by reacting aluminum vapor, aluminum-rich alloy powder or aluminum-rich compound with the substrate elements, such as nickel or cobalt, in the surface layer of the underlying superalloy substrate (col.2 lines 38-48) and can be done by chemical vapor deposition (col.2 lines 49-62). In an embodiment, other elements including platinum, silicon, hafnium and oxide particles can be incorporated in the aluminide layer by a variety of processes such as CVD and can be added to the surface of the component prior to aluminiding (col.3 lines 12-25). The superalloy article can be a gas turbine engine and can be heated (col.2 line 63 – col.3 line 4) and the precursor can be aluminum halide (col.2 lines 65-66). No carrier gas to transport the metal to the chamber is disclosed. However, the reference fails to teach a jet engine component.

It is noted that Vakil is directed to a gas turbine engine in propulsion and power generation industries. One skilled in the art would know that jet engines are utilized in the propulsion industry. It would have been obvious to utilize a jet engine in Vakil's process with the expectation of success given the teaching that jet engines and gas turbine engines are utilized in propulsion situations.

The limitations of claims 25-30, 34-37, and 44-62 have been addressed above.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims above have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
